SHEERING MILL

OS Reference: TL 488144; Sheering Mill Lane, Sawbridgeworth, Herts CM21 9LR

- 1086 Mentioned in the Domesday Book: “Seeringa: Peter de Valognes. Mill, 3 beehives. Mule, ass.”
 Sheering Mill was probably the second Sawbridgeworth Mill mentioned in the Domesday Book, value 5/4d
 13th century A mill also known as Quickbury Water Mill and later called Sheering Mill passed with Quickbury Manor to Bermondsey Priory which in....
 1241 granted privileges there to the mesne lord, Ralph de Assartis. Later in the 13th century the mill passed to Walter of the Mill who sold it with 2½ acres of meadow and its fishpond to Adam de Stratton, lessee of Quickbury for the large 50 marks (1 mark = 13/4d)
[Victoria County History, Essex Vol 8]

- 1362 The mill had no stones at this time [Victoria County History, Essex Vol 8]
- c1401 The mill was apparently burnt down and later rebuilt [Victoria County History, Essex Vol 8]
- 1431 The mill was ruinous. Its location was unknown but it could well have been on the same site as the later mill. [Victoria County History, Essex Vol 8]
- 1553 The mill was a fulling mill or it may have been converted to fulling soon after 1437 when it was acquired by John Leventhorpe from John Vantort (clerk) Thomas Walboro (clerk) and Roger Whale [Fect of Juries, Essex, Vol IV p25 (199)] Included was the mill, 40 acres of land 10 acres of meadow and 6 acres of pasture in Sheryng and another 466 acres in Sawbrichesworth (Herts). He was probably John Leventhorpe (d 1484) a large sheep farmer at Wennington and Sawbridgeworth. The fulling mill remained in the Leventhorpe family until it
- c1629 was sold to Daniel Cramphorne [Victoria County History, Essex Vol 8]
- 1627 The bridge over the Stort was in 1627 the responsibility of the miller of Sheering Mill [Victoria County History, Essex Vol 8]
- 1632 Charles I granted with Sayes Park, the manor of Pishobury (except the park), Sawbridgeworth Mills and the rents of land called Alexander, late of Edward Leventhorpe.... to Arthur Brett and Nicholas Harman. [Victoria County History, Hertford Vol 3]

OS Reference: TL 44411; Burnt Mill Lane, Harlow CM20 2QS

- 1189 – 1199 Abbey Mill of Netteswell Manor, later known as Birnt Mill was being constructed. It was so near to Gilston Mill that the water power was only sufficient for both mills by a mutual arrangement, which still left insufficient power for Parndon Mill. Also agreements were entered into with the Lord of Gilston for the enlargement of the mill pool and the control of the water.

- 1203 Ralph son of Walter conveyed a mill at Netteswell to Waltham Abbey. It was almost certainly the water-mill on the Stort recorded between 1203 and c. 1211, and it may have been the predecessor of Burnt Mill, recorded from 1580. 1841. August When the Northern & Eastern Railway opened here there was no station, only a porter’s lodge by the level crossing. This became a “provisional stopping place“ or what we would nowadays call a halt. Its first recorded use for passengers is 10 September 1841 when the N&ER ran special trains for Harlow Bush Fair.
- 1842 13th May Death of William Death of Burnt Mill [Essex Standard]
- 1843 For the first two years of its life the stopping place at Burnt Mill seems not to have had a fixed name. At first it was known as “Netteswell” or “Burnt-mill, Netteswell” but the name “Burnt Mill” seems to have been adopted around 1843. There were no station buildings or platforms at this time – only hard standings beside the track.
- 1846 The Eastern Counties Railway constructed a permanent station at Burnt Mill in 1846. This had normal platforms, a station building, and a goods yard equipped with a goods shed. This station lasted until 1960 when it was demolished to make way for the new Harlow Town station.

1847 2nd Apr William Death of Watermill Robbed – See below left from the Herts Mercury Sat 3rd April. The story continues below right from the Chelmsford Chronicle of 16th April. Both men were transported to New South Wales on 2 December 1848 on board the ship “Hashemy”.

EASTWICK.

SINGULAR MODE OF ROBBING A MILL.—On Saturday evening last two men, named Burton and Wood, of Eastwick, entered Burnt Mill, for the purpose of stealing flour. It appears that on several occasions flour has been missed from this mill, and much surprise was occasioned, as neither doors, windows, nor shutters were broken open, and no signs of entry being made in that way were discovered. About three weeks since a barge was coming up the river early in the morning, when the men with the barge observed a light, and knowing the mill did not work at night, they subsequently mentioned the fact to Mr. Death, who told them that no one connected with the mill was in it on the night in question. In consequence of this, Mr. Death resolved to watch. On Saturday evening a policeman and the foreman secreted themselves in the mill, and about midnight the men above named were seen to enter, one of them being partly undressed, having stripped himself, and then got up the waterwheel, when he unfastened the door, and let his companion in. They then took two sacks, and commenced filling them, when they were apprehended. They have since been committed for trial.

ROBBERY IN A MILL.—Joseph Burton, 31, and Charles Wood, 26, labourers, were indicted for stealing five pecks of flour, the property of William Death, at Netteswell.—Mr. Marsh for the prosecution, and Mr. Chambers for the defence.—Prosecutor deposed that he occupied Burnt mill, Netteswell; there was flour in the mill, which was in his custody.—John Holmes, foreman to prosecutor, said, that in consequence of what had previously taken place, on the 27th March, he concealed himself with p.c. Chapman in the bottom floor of the mill, and about half-past two next morning he heard two persons go up the pit wheel and a ladder to the floor above where they were watching. They then struck a light and he recognised Burton; they then went into the bran shop and back again to the flour bin, when Burton pulled the slide out and the two men got into the flour; they put something into a sack which was thought to be flour and it was immediately thrown out, when Chaplin and himself discovered themselves and seized prisoners, who were armed with bludgeons.—Joseph Chaplin, p.c. 78, confirmed the evidence of the previous witness.—Mr. Chambers took an objection to the indictment as laying the flour to be the sole property of the prosecutor, and argued that his sisters were partners with him in the business. It was, however, overruled by the court, and the Chairman having summed up the case, the jury returned a verdict of guilty against both prisoners.—There were two other indictments against Wood, upon which no evidence was offered.—Each seven years' transportation.

- 1909 16th Jul Death is announced of William Edward Westrup at Blackheath, Kent on July 16th aged 76. Deceased came of an old milling family, his grandfather being a miller of Stratford, Essex, where he had a mill in Marshgate Lane. In the 1850s Edward and his brother Fredk. sons of William Westrup and father and uncle of W.E. Westrup, occupied Four Mills, Bromley by Bow where the Sun Mills now stands, trading as E & E Westrup. Later they dissolved the partnership and Edward took Parndon Mills where he continued until he died at Parndon Lodge. His son, the late W.E. Westrup started milling for himself at Bermondsey and later bought Finch’s Mill at Millbank, Westminster, which he enlarged and practically rebuilt. In 1886 he sold Bermondsey Mill and in 1890 the Millbank premises. Then he bought Roydon which he completely remodelled on the roller system by Turner. In 1905 he retired from actual milling and the Roydon business was amalgamated with that of E.A. Ayling of Hunsdon Mills. [The Miller, 2nd August]
